DETAILED ACTION

Claim Objections

1. Claim 3 is objected to under 37 CFR 1.75(c), as being of improper dependent form for failing to further limit the subject matter of a previous claim. Applicant is required to cancel the claim(s), or amend the claim(s) to place the claim(s) in proper dependent form, or rewrite the claim(s) in independent form. Claim 3 recites thermoplastic polyurethane in an adhesive layer, which is also recited in claim 1 upon which claim 3 is dependent.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

3. Claims 1-3 and 5-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Sasongko (US 2003/0124347).

Sasongko teaches a two-layered adhesive film for bonding non-polar materials to polar materials in footwear assemblies which comprises an inner thermoplastic polyurethane based adhesive adapted to bond to a polar material and an outer ethylene copolymer based adhesive adapted to bond to a non-polar material. The outer adhesive is interfaced with the inner adhesive. (See abstract). The two adhesive layers are interfacially bonded by coextrusion (see 0007).

Art Unit: 1711

Sasongko further teaches the outer adhesive layer comprising acid or acrylic or anhydride modified ethylene copolymers; while the inner adhesive layer comprising thermoplastic polyurethanes or polyurethane acrylates and polyesters (see 0012-0013).

Sasongko teaches the non-polar material being ethylene copolymer (see claim 7) and the polar material being Sasongko further teaches each of the adhesive film having a thickness of between about 0.0005 to about 0.005 inches (see claim 10).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claim 4 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Sasongko as applied to claims 1-3 above, and further in view of Strickland et al. (US Pat. 5,820,719).

Sasongko is as set forth in claims 1-3 above and incorporated herein.

Sasongko teaches the polar material to be leather or fabric (see 0013). However, Sasongko does not teach the polar material to be synthetic as recited in the instant claim.

Strickland teaches the use of leather, fabric, or synthetic as alternatives as the polar material in the upper (see col. 2, ln. 26-27). Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art, at the time the invention was made, to have employed a synthetic material, such as PVC or urethane, as taught by Strickland, in the invention of Sasongko. The use of PVC or urethane material would have given the same effects because Strickland teaches that the thermoplastic polyurethane adhesive would work as equally well with PVC or urethane as with leather or fabric.
